Dear Literacy Partner,

It's the time of year that each of us at TLC reflect on what's been accomplished and give thanks for those who champion literacy. This year, we're especially thankful for teachers of adults, organizations that provide adult education and literacy programming, and all of you who've supported adult learners this year. We'd like to thank each and every one of you with an event so big only the internet could house it!

Free Paired-Passages Essay Resources for HSE Instructors

If you're preparing students to be successful on either the GED® or the HiSET®, you'll need to have a host of paired-passages in reserve for student practice. Here are some websites where you can find free paired-passages to use in your classes!

Paired passages from ReadWorks.org - These passages are sorted by lexile level, grade level, specific skill/strategy development, or informational/literary. Users do not have to create an account - though they can - to access most material.
